There are many great benefits to bicycle safety and being a bicycle friendly community that will greatly benefit and help the village of Wellington. Being a bicycle friendly community has many benefits which include improved air quality, less traffic congestion, sustainable transportation and healthier lifestyle all of which are great benefits for the community.

Many people want better ways of transportation and one way that wellington can have better transportation is to have sustainable transportation biking is a huge one driving cars hurt our ecosystem and puts bad toxins in the air if we bike to places none of that happens but we have to become more biker friendly in order to do that. Another great advantage of being a biker friendly city is the roads become safer. According to railyards blog in portland they saw a nearly 50 percent decrease of fatalities on the road because becoming a biker friendly city also increases real estate, more retail activity and big benefits to communities being a biker friendly community. has proven to have many benefits which will help the village of Wellington become safer and boost our economy becoming a bicycle friendly city will prove to be a very important decision that will help Wellington prosper and grow.

There are many more benefits to being a bicycle friendly city. A study from the university of california in 2015 says that bicycle friendly cities the people who live there have higher levels of mental health and mental wellbeing. This proves that bicycle friendly communities not only keep you physically healthier but mentally also this can help not only boost wellington economic growth but physical and mental growth and i would help health care costs which is beneficial to our city and the people who live in wellington.

In conclusion, being a bicycle friendly community has many benefits and it is something we should be actively trying to make possible in the village of wellington it would bring many benefits that would help wellington grow and prosper and become one of the premier cities in florida.
