I. CALL TO ORDER

Chair Cleveland called the meeting to order at 6:30 PM. Jane Cleveland, Glen Fleischer, Dr. Kristy Lund (late), Robert Bushey, Dr. Rachel Eidelman (late), Carlos Arellano, and Annabelle Garrett were present.

Staff present: Michael O'Dell, Ryan Harding, and D.J. Helkowski.

II. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCEIII. REMARKS BY COMMITTEE CHAIR

Jane Cleveland started by reminding everyone how livestock waste, an equestrian education program for local schools, and the State of the Industry report are ongoing topics that the EPC wants to continue to focus on. Cleveland then gave the floor to Ryan Harding, who detailed the proposed mid-block crossings in the Equestrian Preserve Area. Cleveland then motioned for consensus on the crossing plan to be pushed forward to the Council phase, and it passed unanimously.

IV. ADDITIONS/DELETIONS/REORDERING OF AGENDA

There were no changes to the agenda.

V. WORKSHOP

Chair Cleveland asked both Annabelle Garrett and Dr. Kristy Lund if they had collected any State of the Industry horse show numbers yet. They both said they hadn't, but that they have contacts working on retrieving the data.

Cleveland then asked if anyone had any success in putting together the equestrian education program for local schools yet. Carlos Arellano commented that he had reached out to USPA, and that they were in favor of forming a relationship with the schools in Wellington. Arellano then suggested that a USPA representative be present for the next EPC meeting.

Livestock waste removal was the next topic, and it was the longest discussion of the evening. Michael O'Dell stated that the Village has been working with the owner of the Ag transshipment site on 50th Street to improve the current operation. The South Florida Water Management District has inspected the site, and they did not issue a violation to the owner of the operation. O'Dell then explained to the committee that the Florida Department of Environmental Protection is currently debating whether to consider the manure a solid waste or an agricultural byproduct. Arellano made the comment that a new Ag transshipment site should be opened in a better location in the Village. Other members of the committee believed that this would be challenging, as there are few areas left in the Village where an operation like this could be placed without being controversial. Glen Fleischer proposed that a new Ag transshipment site could be opened near the fairgrounds, but Robert Bushey responded by saying he didn't believe the County would be okay with that.

O'Dell stated that it is a goal of the Strategic Planning division to find one or more end users (mulching, chipping, or shavings businesses). Composting and conversion to biofuels were also discussed as potential solutions in regards to livestock waste removal.

The next topic discussed was the primary subject of the workshop: bridle trails as well as golf cart/low-speed vehicles on Village roads and pathways. O'Dell began by showing the different bridle trails on a map and giving the history of the trail system. O'Dell explained that the trail system is a work in progress and is heavily reliant on private land owners being willing to sign easement agreements.

Ryan Harding then began explaining that state statutes define golf carts as motor vehicles that are incapable of exceeding 20 miles per hour. Low-speed vehicles are defined by state statute as a motor vehicle that can exceed 20 miles per hour but not 25. O'Dell claimed that the BMP's/Bollards have limited golf carts on pathways over recent years. A golf cart can be converted into a low-speed vehicle, and is classified as such under state statute when a golf cart is registered as street legal. A map of Village roadways that are able to accommodate low-speed vehicles according to state statute was then shown to committee members. Both Pierson Road and 50th Street under state law can be accessed by golf carts and low speed vehicles, but as Annabelle Garrett suggested, these roads may be too dangerous for golf carts and low-speed vehicles to drive on. O'Dell said the Village may say no to these roadways being used by these vehicles depending upon the Village Engineer's recommendation on the matter.

The final topic discussed was the upcoming EPC meeting schedule. The committee decided that the next EPC meeting wouldn't be until September, but a July deadline for putting a report together on the state of the industry numbers as well as the equestrian education committee was decided upon.
